On-Demand EDI Service Provider, SPS Commerce, Named a Finalist for the SoftwareCEO Software Innovation Awards 2008

Company Recognized for Its Innovative Service and Business Model for Web-based EDI

Minneapolis, Minn., April 17, 2008 - SPS Commerce, the leading provider of Web-based EDI services, today announced that it has been named a finalist for the SoftwareCEO Software Innovation Award 2008, in the Innovative Service and Business Model category.

SoftwareCEO's annual Software Innovation Awards recognize products, ideas and business models that break with conventional software ideas and processes producing results that go well beyond marginal improvements on that which already exists.

"SoftwareCEO's annual Software Innovation Awards recognize our industry's efforts and accomplishments in bringing innovative products and new business models to market," said David Sommer, chief operating officer, CompTIA, and publisher of SoftwareCEO. "The companies selected as finalists for these prestigious awards are delivering real business value to customers with their products and services. We are pleased to recognize their achievements."

The full listing of finalist for the SoftwareCEO Software Innovation Award 2008 is available at http://www.softwareceo.com/awards/innovation_finalists_2008.php.

"We are pleased to be selected as a finalist for this award honoring innovation," stated Archie Black, president and CEO of SPS Commerce. "SPS' business model is focused on delivering our on-demand integration services to thousands of 3PL, retailer and supplier customers. We are truly honored by this recognition."

To learn more about SPS' Web-based EDI services and business model, download its latest whitepaper.