SPS Commerce to Present on E-Commerce Fulfillment at NEECOM

Retailers Will Learn How Visibility and Trading Requirements Can Support E-Commerce Initiatives, Including Drop Ship, and SPS Introduces New Ways to Discover E-Commerce Capable Vendors

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 9, 2012 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- SPS Commerce (Nasdaq:SPSC), a leading provider of on-demand supply chain management solutions, today announced that Scott Bolduc, Director of Supply Chain Strategy at SPS Commerce will present at the New England Electronic Commerce (NEECOM) Annual Fall Conference. The session, How B2C Impacts the Supplier's Direct to Consumer (D2C) Model, will take place on Thursday, October 18, 2012, at 3:15 p.m. at the Doubletree Hotel Westborough in Westborough, Massachusetts.

The 60-minute session will discuss how retailers are continuing to support e-commerce via their distribution centers, as well as expanding factory direct shipments to the .com consumer. Mr. Bolduc will share best practices on defining the visibility and electronic trading requirements associated with e-commerce orders and the challenges they pose for many vendors, especially when shipping directly to consumers. The presentation will also address the growing trend in using cloud-based supply chain communities for sourcing e-commerce capable vendors.

"E-commerce retailers find that they need to leverage new order models to provide the visibility and communications needed to support these consumers," said Bolduc. "SPS Commerce has worked with many e-tailers and traditional retailers doing e-commerce. During this session, attendees will hear key learnings from these experiences as we share some proven strategies for developing trading requirements, teaming with vendors, and identifying e-commerce ready trading partners."
