

Oz Development and SPS Commerce Partner to Deliver Integrated Supply Chain Solutions

Cloud-Based Solutions Speed Logistics Integration to Streamline the Order Fulfillment Process for Suppliers Worldwide

MINNEAPOLIS, April 3, 2012 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- Oz Development, a cloud-based application integration provider, and SPS Commerce (Nasdaq:SPSC), a leading provider of on-demand supply chain management solutions, today announced a partnership that delivers cloud-based integration and supply chain solutions to help distribution, e-commerce, manufacturing and retail companies to easily comply with customer shipping and logistics requirements with proven integration to NetSuite and many other ERP systems.

"Since 2009, SPS and OzLINK™ have together helped several suppliers quickly integrate and comply with their retail customers' shipping and label requirements," said Brian Hodgson, vice president of sales and marketing at Oz Development. "Our new partnership equips us to take our proven solutions to a broader retail community. We are delighted to expand our relationship with SPS Commerce."

OzLINK solutions integrate today's disparate IT ecosystems and connect an organization's ERP, CRM, WMS and SCM systems to interact with each other. SPS Commerce's cloud-based supply chain services improve the way suppliers, retailers, distributors and 3PLs build their trading partner relationships and manage and fulfill orders with pre-built integrations using 3,000 order management models across 1,500 retailers, grocers and distributors. SPS' Retail Universe, a social network for the supply chain, is designed to help the community's 40,000 members form new business partnerships based on product or integration requirements.

"SPS Commerce is pleased to partner with Oz Development," said Archie Black, president and CEO of SPS Commerce. "We've seen how our joint solutions can add value to our customers using NetSuite and other ERPs and ease the challenges of shipping and label compliance. OzLINK solutions offer a robust integration backed by a team of talented professionals."
