

SPS Commerce Named Top Small Workplaces 2008 Finalist by The Wall Street Journal

B2B Integration Provider Chosen as One of 35 Finalists for Award Honoring Companies Dedicated to Teamwork, Innovation, and Professional Growth

Minneapolis, Minn., July 15, 2008 - SPS Commerce, the leading provider of SaaS EDI services, today announced that it has been named a Top Small Workplaces 2008 finalist by The Wall Street Journal and Winning Workplaces. This second-annual award program honors 35 organizations nationwide who foster teamwork, flexibility, high productivity and innovation while also treating their employees with respect, providing opportunities for professional growth and advancement, and providing benefits, both traditional and nontraditional, that make the employee experience better.

Finalists were selected through a national search by Winning Workplaces and The Wall Street Journal. All candidates were required to be a North American organization that is independent, have no more than $200 million in annual revenues, have 500 or fewer employees, and have been in business at least five years.

“Through our SPS University and other professional development programs, dynamic corporate culture, and competitive benefits, SPS Commerce has been able to attract, grow, and retain the very best IT, operations, customer service, sales, marketing, and administration professionals,” stated Archie Black, president and CEO of SPS Commerce. “We are very pleased to have been selected as a finalist by The Wall Street Journal and Winning Workplaces for this prestigious award.”

The winners of the Top Small Workplaces award will be announced on October 13, 2008 in a Wall Street Journal report on Small Business and at the Top Small Workplaces Conference in Chicago, IL.
