

SPS Commerce to Present on Supply Chain Networks at Microsoft Dynamics Convergence 2012

Session Discusses the Current and Future State of Cloud-Based Supply Chain Communities and How Organizations Can Use Them to Grow Their Business

MINNEAPOLIS, March 19, 2012 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- SPS Commerce (Nasdaq:SPSC), a leading provider of on-demand supply chain management solutions, today announced that David Novak, Executive Vice President at SPS Commerce, will present at the Microsoft Dynamics Convergence 2012 Conference in Houston, TX. The session, Cloud-based Supply Chain Networks: What's New and What's Next?, will take place on Tuesday, March 20, 2012, at 12:30 p.m. CT in Hilton Ballroom B. The session will share how retailers, suppliers and 3PLs can use supply chain-centric social media communities to enhance their marketing efforts and identify business opportunities.

"Cloud-based networks, like SPS' Retail Universe, are empowering the retail ecosystem to connect and collaborate like never before," said Novak. "In this session, retailers, suppliers, transportation companies and technology providers will learn how to leverage an online business community to save time and gain more business in 2012, both in e-commerce and traditional retail business models."

With more than 40,000 members, the Retail Universe is an online community for trading partners in the retail supply chain modeled after popular social networking sites. The community is being used to facilitate relationships and communications between all members of the retail ecosystem.

Conference attendees can register for Mr. Novak's session at <http://supplychain.spscommerce.com/SPSCConvergenceSpeakingSignUp>. Learn more about SPS Commerce's integrated solutions for Microsoft Dynamics at booth #2434 at Microsoft Dynamics Convergence 2012.
