SPS Commerce Extends Retail Universe Trading Community to NetSuite Customers

Online Community Instantly Connects NetSuite Customers With New Suppliers, Distributors and 3PLs

SAN FRANCISCO, May 17, 2012 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- SPS Commerce (Nasdaq:SPSC), a leading provider of on-demand supply chain management solutions, today announced that the Retail Universe trading community, an online community for trading partners in the retail supply chain, designed to facilitate relationships and communications between all members of the retail ecosystem, is available to NetSuite customers to enable them to easily connect with new trading partners. The Retail Universe community can help NetSuite customers expand business opportunities with new partners and new markets to increase sales of products and services. Through the free online community, NetSuite customers can collaborate online with more than 40,000 members. The announcement was made at SuiteWorld 2012, NetSuite's user and partner conference held in San Francisco.

Modeled after popular social networking sites, Retail Universe is a free, online community for trading partners in the retail supply chain industry. Vendors and logistics providers can differentiate and promote themselves in the Retail Universe by highlighting their unique product offerings and capabilities, such as support for specific fulfillment models, including drop ship.

"As a NetSuite partner since 2007, SPS Commerce has a proven history of delivering impactful cloud-based EDI and supply chain solutions to our customers," said Guido Haarmans, VP Business Development for Technology Partnerships at NetSuite. "The Retail Universe community is SPS' latest innovation that can help NetSuite customers grow their business by identifying and connecting online with new trading partners."

"Cloud-based networks, like SPS' Retail Universe, are empowering the retail ecosystem to connect and collaborate across the globe like never before," said David Novak, Executive Vice President, Sales and Business Development at SPS Commerce. "We are delighted to offer this service to NetSuite's customers and showcase Retail Universe at SuiteWorld."
