

SPS Commerce Honored by Supply & Demand Chain Executive as a Leading Supply Chain Innovator

Annual "100" Listing Honors Technology Providers Helping Organizations Meet the Challenges of the 21st Century Supply Chain

Minneapolis, Minn., July 23, 2007, SPS Commerce, a leading trading partner integration center offering fully outsourced Electronic Data Interchange (EDI) and Catalog functions, has been named to the 2007 Supply & Demand Chain Executive 100 list by Supply & Demand Chain Executive Magazine. The 2007 Supply & Demand Chain Executive 100 are supply chain solution and service providers that are at the forefront of enabling the 21st century supply chain. SPS Commerce was selected based on submissions to the "100" from end users and solution providers. The judging committee for the "100," including the editorial staff of the magazine, in conjunction with the editorial advisory board, compiled the list of leading supply and demand chain innovators.

"SPS Commerce is committed to offering outsourced integration services that enable our customers to efficiently address the demands of today's retail and supplier relationships," commented Archie Black, president and CEO of SPS Commerce. "For more than a decade, we have offered innovative solutions that make a real difference for our customers in both improved supply chain integration, and enable them to focus more attention on their core competencies and leave the EDI to us. We would like to extend our sincere appreciation to those that nominated SPS Commerce, the judging committee and Supply & Demand Chain Executive for honoring us again with their award."

"Our readers turn to Supply & Demand Chain Executive to learn about solutions and best practices for enabling the supply chain, to understand trends in supply chain technology, and to benchmark their own companies' enablement initiatives with those of other enterprises across industry verticals," explained Andrew K. Reese, editor of Supply & Demand Chain Executive. "We are pleased to again honor SPS Commerce for their innovative solutions that are helping its customers meet the challenges of the 21st century supply chain."
