SPS Commerce Expands European Operations

Leading Retail Cloud Services Provider Grows London Office to Address Strong Customer Demand and Strengthen Its Global Omnichannel Retail Community

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 30, 2014 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- SPS Commerce, Inc. (Nasdaq:SPSC), a leader in retail cloud services, announces its continued global expansion with a new office in the United Kingdom. The expansion will offer more local SPS support to European-based retail customers, as well as North American retailers and suppliers with global operations. SPS Commerce currently has more than 50,000 customers from 50 countries across worldwide.

"Retail is an international business as most retail organizations have operations and trading partners across the globe," said Archie Black, president and CEO of SPS Commerce. "SPS is focused on strategically building our operations in the regions where our customers do business and local support is needed. Our company is expanding its European operations to support existing European customers and fuel the growth of our network in this region."

SPS Commerce offers a suite of omnichannel retail solutions, including robust point-of-sale and inventory analytics, fulfillment services and an online sourcing community. SPS Europe, Ltd.'s growing employee base will manage all European operations by providing local support, fostering partnerships and spurring new customer acquisition.

"We are delighted to see SPS Commerce expanding its operations in Europe," said Mike Baldwin, sales analysis manager at Columbia Sportswear Company. "SPS brings the retail expertise and the insightful solutions needed for organizations, like Columbia, to better understand the European consumer and grow our business."
